Editor's Note

The much anticipated volume of the Journal of Nazrul University has just been published (Volume 9, Number 1&2) and once again it presents cutting edge multidisciplinary bilingual research. In line with our motto “Education, Research, and Development” for uplifting the standard of the university to world class, this well-timed publicaion is a testament to the university’s stature as a national leader of impactful research.

I commend the focused efforts of the editorial board whose due diligence has ensured the inclusion of the most innovative research in accordance with our “double blind” vetting policy. I also recognize the support of all of the stakeholders whose continuing engagement with the Journal of Nazrul University has moved it close to its goal of becoming one of the leading research journals in Bangladesh.

According to our revised publication policy, two issues (January and July) of the journal will be published annually. To that end, I am issuing a clarion call to all established and budding researchers across the world to continue to support our efforts with ongoing submissions on multiple disciplines and on all aspects of higher education. On our part, we promise a quick response and a commitment to fairness, equity and transparency in our peer review and publication process.

I hope that you will enjoy reading our journal and that the original findings and nuances of the authors will broaden your intellectual horizons. Please note that we welcome and appreciate your comments about all aspects of the journal.
